Bound only by the perimeters of our imagination and grounded in our own children's future, our story begins in Australia and continues globally with a sole mission: to redefine the environment in which we learn. With curiosity at our core and an endless passion for learning ourselves, we have been committed from the start to creating a movement that propels learning forward for all. Crafted designs intended to inspire, our products create opportunities for limitless discovery and connections.

SEE OUR FULL STORY

As you begin this journey with us, we invite you to become a part of our story.

Our spaces are curated to bring learning to life, connect knowledge to experience, and transform the lives of not one, but every individual.

Together
we will open
our minds, share our experiences,
and be fearless.

*And when we arrive
at the conclusion, we will leave armed to provoke and embrace positive change and action,
leaving a legacy of excellence
for generations to come.*

Don't Desk Me In

As you explore the world of NorvaNivel, you will discover the stories of those courageous and bold enough to share.

These stories speak to the big voices and the little voices, and they embrace our overwhelming desire for freedom of thought, our human right to be unique individuals, and our need for connection and creativity.

These are the stories that guide us, inspire us, and challenge us.

They help us understand how we can design better, learn better, and be better. The collection, and sharing of these stories, continues beyond the pages of this book...

The most important thing for adults to know about kids is it's important that they feel safe.

— SHYANNE

Collaboration
is at the heart
of what we do,
and collaborative,
engaging
learning environments
are all we do.

Working Together

We are masters of progressive learning space design through the lens of education, innovation, and function. We engage all stakeholders in the process of creating imaginative and innovative learning spaces that align to the needs of learners. By utilizing our custom live design and professional learning workshops, led by our team of out-of-this-world designers, architects, educators and administrators, our mission remains to create high impact learning environments.

From Early Learning to Higher Ed, the combination of our spaces and intentional products allow us a unique toolkit for the reimaging of education. We partner with the souls who share our vision and continually seek to collaborate with those who also want to impact education — and change the world.

Our Design Philosophy

We believe that there is no one-size-fits-all approach to learning. We know that education can, in fact, change the trajectory of a person's life, and we live to be a part of it.

We value the immense impact that intentionally designed products and thoughtfully curated spaces can make in fostering learner engagement and agency. When designed with functional intent, these spaces can elevate the learning and engage the learner.

We believe that human-centered design thinking is our key to connecting our spaces with our teaching, our learning, and our culture in a tangible and meaningful way.

We continually seek opportunities to purposefully set the conditions for mastery of skills and connections needed in tomorrow's world through functional and inspired design.

Like our spaces, we continually adapt to the ever-changing world around us through our relentless commitment to the pursuit of innovation.

We design only for education and manufacture
every product
we sell.

Our designs are set to challenge conventions with the intent of awakening our senses.

Our Learning Space Philosophy

From early learning to adulthood, we seek to create spaces that consider a synchronous impact, to both the learner and academic and pedagogical goals, facilitating the movement towards a future-ready education system.

Spaces curated to promote a strong culture of learning and a strong sense of self.

Incubating the growth of unique skills and interests, while continually striving to achieve equity and diversity, we challenge the concept of equality.

Our spaces encourage guided choice through their intentional adaptability.

Our products open up opportunities to engage in genuine inquiry, allowing for that connection between experience, knowledge, and environment.

Ultimately, we strive to create spaces designed for humans that consider social and emotional growth as an integral component to both personal and academic success.

It is better than you would expect from the individual parts because the way they combine adds a different quality.

— ARISTOTLE

Classrooms

The classroom environment is on the cusp of undergoing the greatest transformation. Unbounded by the traditional physical space, the classroom of today is now a space for creative, collaborative activities, stimulating discussion and supporting varied teaching and learning styles.

We provide spaces that consider comfort and safety, while facilitating quick and relevant adaptability to a multi-faceted and evolving curriculum, creating opportunities for dynamic transitions.

Our opportunity and challenge today is to create classrooms designed specifically to facilitate the growth of future-ready skills, and the varied unique needs of today's learners.

Extended Learning Areas

The consideration of the in between spaces provides unique opportunities for extending and cultivating new learning practices, contributing to a visible culture of learning.

Your buildings, both old and new, present limitless spaces to connect in places unused or previously unimagined. These informal learning spaces align flexibly to individual learning styles, while fostering positive socialization skills in often underutilized spaces.

Designed to facilitate variability, these spaces only amplify our opportunities for learning, heighten our experiences and connections, and create a strong sense of community and culture.

Make and Create

Making overlaps with our natural inclination to learn, by paving the way for more hands-on, discovery-based learning in today's schools.

A maker mindset encourages students to shift from passive users to active creators. It places value on the individual's ability to be the creator of things by promoting problem-solving, collaboration and critical thinking, while inspiring creativity and encouraging meaningful cross-curricular collaboration.

Maker and STEAM spaces encourage knowledge as a result of experience, deepening our connection to learning, and heightening our ability to discover unique passions and talents.

Cafe Commons

Our cafe spaces are at the center of creating a sense of community, culture, and social connection across ages and backgrounds.

These spaces feed our senses and our emotions; they bind us together and give us an understanding of our place in the world and our relationship to other people within it.

Our cafes are places where equity and socialization are at the core of the design: a safe space that fills our tummies and fuels our minds.

Today's cafeteria is being completely reimagined. A now vibrant and inclusive space, with abundant choice and opportunity to socialize and learn as a community, the cafeteria of the future is once again at the core of connection.

Media & Resource Center

Since its inception, the library has been a vital part of education. This space is the heart of knowledge and an evolving space for innovation, transforming the lives of communities by facilitating the creation of new knowledge.

A place designed to foster inquiry, collaboration, exploration and engagement, the library/media resource center of today seeks to develop curiosities and understanding by facilitating shared and equitable access to an enriching and diverse collection of resources.

The library is the hub of active learning, supporting constant evolution and maintaining the culture of knowledge immersion through experiential discovery.

Faculty Collaboration

The role of the educator is in continuous motion, evolving rapidly and fluidly, adapting with the changing and varied needs of each learner and the constant innovation in both what and how we teach.

Architects of learning, change agents in the process of our progression, and role models for both learners and peers, today's educators are vital to the school ecosystem.

These incredible doers, leaders, instructors, and mentors deserve spaces designed to encourage the sharing of ideas, stories, and successes. Spaces that speak to the culture of the school's vision, offer support, reprieve and restoration, while reflecting the same ingenuity in agility and adaptability as the facilitators of knowledge working within them.

Higher Ed

Preparing learners for life after school has never been a more daunting task.

Today's colleges and universities need to equip learners with the transversal skills needed to tackle the ever-evolving workplace. Skills such as collaboration, communication, creativity, critical thinking, community, connectivity and grit are in the highest demand.

Spaces in higher education facilities need to reflect our ever-changing world.

We dream to write a new story in education...

A story not just about intellectual achievement and measurable knowledge, but one that is also about the heart, emotions, relationship, love, generosity, resilience, compassion and variability.

All of these values combined will create a new system in which we celebrate the individual and create a path where discovery of oneself and one's passions are presented as new and perpetual opportunities now and forever.

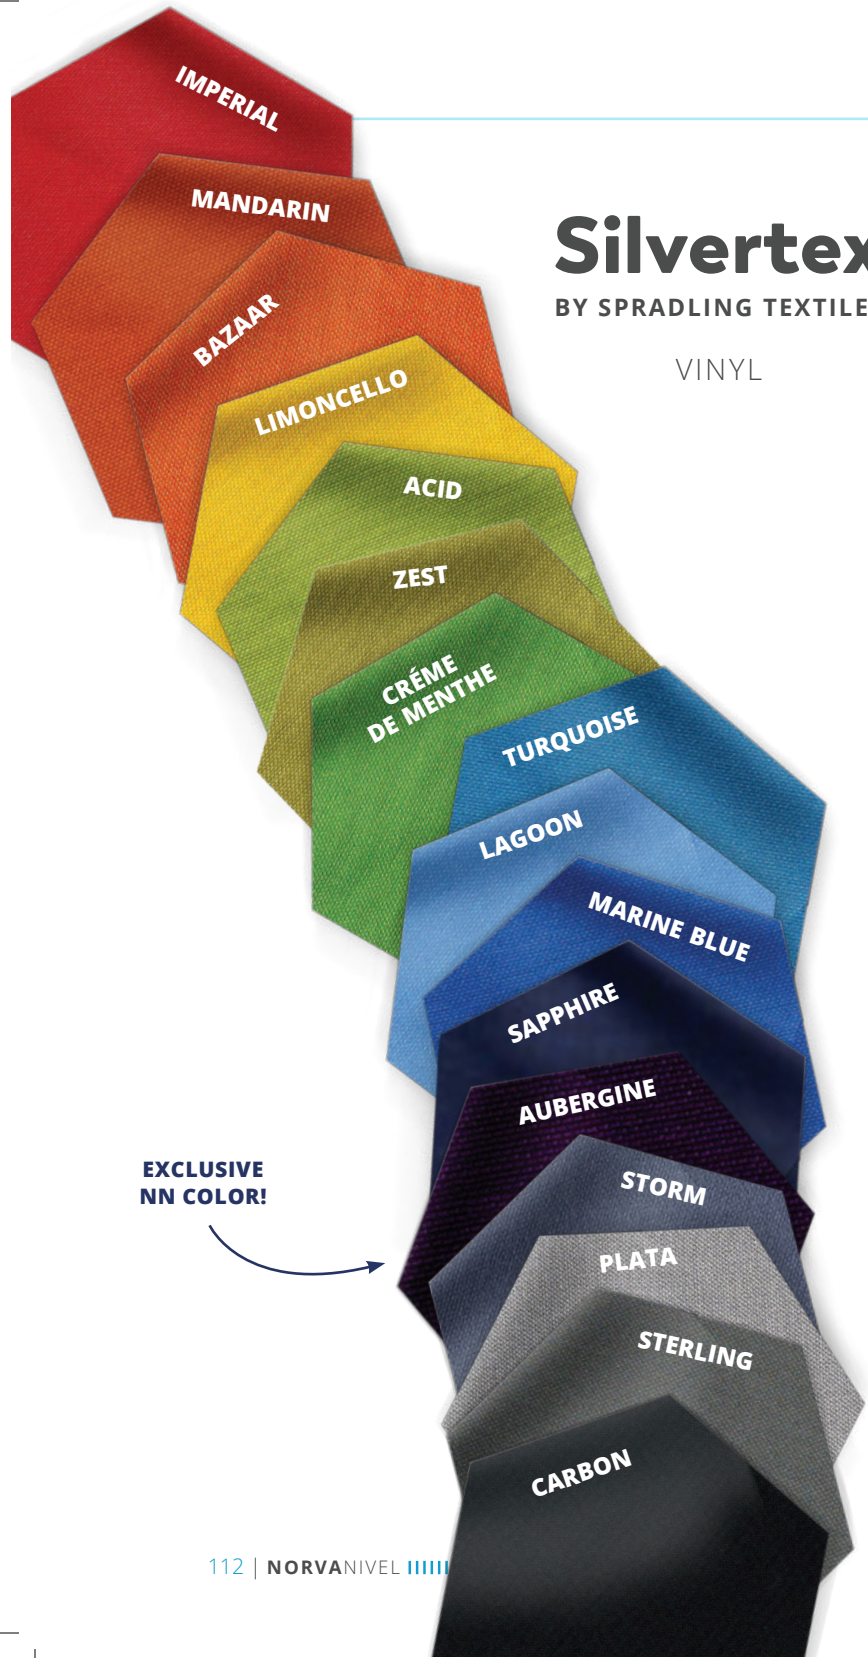

We will continue to create inspiring products and spaces that refuse to do anything but take us to the place where we strive to be.
